

FOUR BARS CLOSE AS LICENSES ARE REVOKED BY CITY

Mayor and Chief of Police Recall Permits of Places Raided as Blind Pigs Sunday.

NEW CHARGE AGAINST M. GLYNN

Shot Three Without Further Ceremony But Held Eighteenth Street Bar Owner on Allegation.

Licenses of four saloons were revoked this morning after a conference between Mayor William McConochie and Chief of Police Phil Miller. The four places closed are those in connection with which alleged blind pigs were raided by the police Sunday. They are those of:

Max Glynn, 115 Eighteenth street.
Theodore Van Wassenhove, 1701 Fourth avenue.

Theodore De Paep, 200 Twenty-first street.
Joe Busch, 208 Twenty-second street.

There was no ceremony connected with the closing of the last three places. The mayor and chief after discussing the situation declared that the saloon keepers had been sufficiently warned, and there was but one course to pursue. The chief sent officers to the various places with instructions to secure the licenses and see that the curtains were pulled back and the bars closed.

Held Glynn on New Charge.

In the Max Glynn case, however, the officials decided to prefer the charge of selling liquor without a license. Glynn was fined yesterday for selling liquor on Sunday, the police declaring that whiskey and beer were being sold in the pool room he conducts at 115 Eighteenth street, next to his saloon.

He was arraigned in police court before Magistrate Smith this morning. Attorney B. R. Reynolds appeared for him. He did not seem to want to go to trial at the time and Chief Miller then ordered Officer Kinney to get the license and close the place. Glynn makes down when the chief announced this intention and he seemed greatly alarmed that he was to lose his license. He was fined $50 and costs on the charge this afternoon.

Mayor McConochie said this morning that the city authorities were sincere in their efforts to keep the saloons closed Sunday. "We are going to keep the bars shut on Sunday if we have to revoke every saloon license in Rock Island," his honor said to newspaper men.

Other Blind Pigs Next.

The mayor also declared that the activities of the officials would not be confined only on the saloons. He intimated that there were drug stores and grocery stores which had been selling liquor not only Sunday, but during the week as well. The mayor said:

"There are some 'saccharine' people here that are selling booze on Sunday. It has been bought in drug stores and at groceries and we know who ought to be watched, and we're going to watch them. There are two drug stores we have warned. We found their names on bottles which were bought on Sunday. If the government doesn't get after the grocery store owners we certainly will."

"It's a blackeye for us to have men seen on the streets on Sunday in an intoxicated condition. The people here that it is not the saloons in most cases but the drug stores and groceries."

MOLINE WOMAN IS KILLED BY A TRAIN

Mrs. Anna Brunstrom Cut in Two by Burlington Freight at Fourth Street.

HAD BACK IN WAY OF DANGER

Move to Escape Being Run Down by a Frightened Team Brought Her Before Locomotive.

Mrs. Anna B. Brunstrom, 250 Third avenue, Moline, mother of Supervisor Charles Brunstrom, was instantly killed by a Burlington freight train at the Fourth street crossing in Moline at 11:50 this morning. Her body was cut in two.

Mrs. Brunstrom, who was 56 years of age, was on the way across the railroad tracks to make some purchases at a grocery store. After passing the Burlington tracks she was stopped by a train on the Rock Island road. In front of her was a team of horses which became frightened at the Rock Island train and started backing.

Mrs. Brunstrom, to escape danger from the wagon which threatened to strike her, stepped backward onto the Burlington track just as a freight train, which she had not heard, approached. She was struck squarely and thrown to the track, falling across the rail. Wheels of the engine passed across her abdomen, cutting her completely in two.

It was raining at the time of the accident and Mrs. Brunstrom was carrying an umbrella. It is possible that this had something to do with her failure to see or hear the oncoming train which struck her.

The train was brought to a standstill within 40 feet and the body was extricated from beneath the wheels. It is probable that an inquest will be held tomorrow morning. The remains were taken to the Esterdahl undertaking parlors in Moline.

Less than three months ago a granddaughter of Mrs. Brunstrom, daughter of Supervisor Brunstrom, was struck by a train in the east end of Moline and injured severely.

Was 80 Years of Age.

Mrs. Brunstrom, whose maiden name was Anna Britta Lydehn, was born in Sweden, March 3, 1835. She came to America in 1896 and was united in marriage Nov. 17, 1884, to M. L. Brunstrom. The latter passed away July 24, 1900. Only one child survives, Supervisor Charles Brunstrom, Moline druggist.

Deceased was a member of the Swedish Lutheran church and active in the Aid society in her younger years. Funeral services will be held Friday at the church, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

GERMANS NEEDING BREAD IS CLAIM

M. Buhlig Here on Visit Declares This Is Greatest Problem Facing Fatherland.

"The bread question is a serious one in Germany," declared M. Buhlig, father of Miss Alma Buhlig, instructor in the Rock Island high school, today, in speaking of the war situation. Mr. Buhlig has just arrived from the old country and will visit with his daughter for a time.

"Food is plentiful in Germany, except bread," he continued. "Most of the bread served is poor and only rice can be obtained. Wheat can neither be raised or imported."

When asked if it was true that the Germans are bitter against the Americans he replied in the affirmative. "The Germans feel that the United States has no right to ship arms to the allies," he explained. "We feel that a country claiming to be neutral should not extend aid of any sort to the belligerents."

Mr. Buhlig declared that he had no unusual experiences in crossing the water, except that a British warship halted the vessel on which he was traveling and searched both it and the passengers.

COUNCIL PASSES JITBUS MEASURE

New Ordinance to Regulate Passenger Cars Adopted Unanimously at Afternoon Session.

The jitbus ordinance was unanimously passed at the regular meeting of the city council this afternoon, and the measure will take effect after due publication, within the next two weeks. The ordinance provides for license fees of $15, 35 or 450, and bonds amounting to $5,000.

The public is now debating whether the jitbus men will adopt a new name of "taxicabs," as was done in Moline to evade the new measure. Taxicabs are not listed in the ordinance in Rock Island.

The council also voted to purchase a pulmotor for $142.50, which will be used to resuscitate drowning persons or those overcome by gas. A similar instrument has proven of real value to the Davenport police department.
